KIMMEL CENTER APPOINTS SEVEN NEW BOARD MEMBERS AND CHAIR-ELECT TO BOARD OF DIRECTORS

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE (Philadelphia, PA, November 14, 2017) — The Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts, a non-profit, Board-led institution, announces seven new members and one new chair-elect to its Board of Directors. The elected members are all regional business and civic leaders, chosen to work alongside an already impressive list of Philadelphia community influencers to guide the Kimmel Center forward towards continued success.

New board members include: Madeline Apollo, Vice President of Finance and Administration & CFO for the Chemical Heritage Foundation; Jim Dever, Bank of America Market President in Philadelphia; Carolina Cabrera DiGiorgio, Esq., President & CEO of Congreso de Latinos Unidos, Inc.; Philip Jaurigue, Founder and CEO of Sabre Systems, Inc.; Jeffrey P. McFadden, CCM CCE, General Manager of The Union League of Philadelphia; Mark Samuels, EVP and Chief Marketing Officer of SEI; and Matthew A. Taylor, Vice Chairman of the Firm and Chairman of Duane Morris' Trial Practice Group.

“The extraordinary dedication these passionate leaders bring to their new roles as Kimmel Center Board Members will greatly serve the Kimmel Center’s mission and our aim to be the preeminent place to convene and enjoy exceptional experiences,” said Anne Ewers, President & CEO of the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts. “Our new members reflect the tapestry of interests and backgrounds of our diverse city, and I look forward to working with them in the months and years to come.”

Existing Board Member and Vice Chair, Teresa Bryce Bazemore, will assume the role of Board Chair on July 1, 2018, when current Chair, Dave Holveck's term draws to a close. Ms. Bazemore will be the first African American woman to serve as Chairman of the Board for the Kimmel Center.

"The initiatives of the Kimmel Center Board continue to be shaped by and for the entire community," said current board member and Chair-Elect Teresa Bryce Bazemore. "I am thrilled to continue serving this non-profit organization, ensuring the Center is a hub for not only diverse programming, but social conversations and relevance."

"These individuals will bring an infusion of new ideas and energy to the board as we continue to grow and prosper as the region's most impactful performing arts center," said David P. Holveck, current Kimmel Center Board of Directors Chair. "Their presence will be essential to the Center as we navigate the phases of our comprehensive campaign. I look forward to continued work with Ms. Bazemore throughout the next year to achieve a seamless transition."

David P. Holveck has served as the Kimmel Center's Chairman of the Board for four years. Holveck orchestrated the successful purchase of the Merriam Theater from University of the Arts and launched a Strategic Planning process that resulted in unifying three venues into a Kimmel Center Cultural Campus. He has encouraged strong financial stability for the Kimmel Center reflected in balanced budgets for each of his four years. Holveck further ensured that the Board, vendors, and staff represent the region's diverse community. During his tenure, the Kimmel Center Presents programs and audiences have doubled and the Kimmel Center has expanded its reach through partnerships and with popular programming targeted to young families, Millennial, African American, and Hispanic audiences.

The Kimmel Center Board of Directors is currently led by Chair David P. Holveck, Chair-Elect Teresa Bryce Bazemore, Vice Chair Robert Corrato, Vice Chair Thomas A. Decker, Treasurer Michael D. Zisman, Secretary Jami Wintz McKeon, and President & CEO Anne Ewers.

Madeline Apollo

Madeline Apollo is the Avenue of the Arts Representative to the Kimmel Center Board of Directors. She is the Vice President of Finance and Administration/Chief Financial Officer for the Chemical Heritage Foundation, who works to preserve the history of chemistry and technology, by studying the past in order to understand the present and inform the future. In her position, Madeline guides the operation by leading the finance, information technology, human resources, and facilities functions as they operate the Museum, Library, Research Institute and Conference Center.

Prior to her time at CHF, Madeline served as the Chief Operating Officer at the Pennsylvania Ballet for five years. Madeline joined this prestigious arts organization at a time when it was struggling to survive. Under her leadership, the Ballet experienced record ticket sales and a secure financial position. In her nineteen years with the Pennsylvania Convention Center, Madeline held a number of key leadership roles culminating in Chief Financial Officer. She was responsible for the management of the original $500 million construction project through its evolution into a premier meeting facility and, later its $800 million expansion. Both projects were completed on time and on budget. A native New Yorker, Madeline began her career at major corporations including CBS Records, Chiquita Brands International and Revlon Inc.

A long time champion of the arts, Madeline has served on a number of nonprofit boards including Avenue of the Arts, Inc., Reading Terminal Market Corporation and the Mendelssohn Club. Madeline holds a bachelor's degree in Accounting from the Stern School of Business at New York University. Madeline enjoys spending time with her daughters who both reside in Manhattan. Madeline and her husband split their time between residences in South Jersey and Philadelphia.

Jeffrey P. McFadden CCM CCE

Jeff McFadden is the General Manager of The Union League of Philadelphia. He grew up on the Jersey Shore where he started in the hospitality industry at a very young age. He worked his way up the food and beverage ladder at the famous Essex and Sussex Hotel, the Shoreham Hotel, and the Warren Hotel. His first club position came in the form of a summer internship at the Mantoloking Yacht Club where he was the club manager. In 1990 he graduated with honors from Cornell's School of Hotel Management and accepted the position of Food and Beverage Director at the Cosmos Club in Washington D.C. Jeff produced the first food and beverage surplus in the club's 125 year history. At 27 years of age Jeff headed west to the University Club of Denver, becoming one of the youngest General Managers in the country. In 1998, at the age of 30, Jeff became the leader of The Union League of Philadelphia. Since his arrival Jeff has grown top-line revenues from $7.5 million to over $35 million dollars, including $15 million in food and beverage receipts. He is currently overseeing a $14 million update and renovation to the League's main kitchen and ballroom. This project which will be completed on July 1, 2013 includes a state of the art kitchen, with a full butcher shop, a chocolate room, and a pastry shop. Also in the kitchen is an 18 seat demonstration kitchen and a two story wine dining room. Jeff is a strong advocate for raising the profile of food and beverage in the private club industry and is a strong believer that if you do not have an excellent food and beverage program, delivering outstanding dining experiences, you will not have a private club in 2020.

Last year The Union League was honored as the #1 Platinum City Club in America! Jeff is actively involved with Club Manager Association of America and the National Club Association. He achieved his certification in club management from CMAA in 2001, Honor Society in 2008 then certified as a Chief Executive in 2009. Locally, he co-founded the Philadelphia Club Foundation to support student and manager club education in the Delaware Valley. With the help of chapter members, the Philadelphia Club Foundation now supports 100% of local professional management education as well as three $10,000 student club management annual scholarships. In 2004 Jeff was honored as Club Manager of the Year by the Philadelphia and Vicinity Chapter. In 2005 and 2009, Jeff was awarded the National Club Association's Council Member of the Year and in 2012 he was awarded the national Excellence in Club Management Award sponsored by Club and Resort BUSINESS and the McMahan Group. Jeff McFadden currently serves on many Boards, including;

Angel Flight East, Avenue of the Arts, Inc., Cradle of Liberty Council – Boy Scouts of America, Greater Philadelphia Hotel Association, Gulph Creek Hotels, is Chairman of the National Club Association Foundation, the Pennsylvania Aero Club, Roman Catholic High School, Wings Field and Widener University School of Hospitality.
